Dear Emmy,

Many thanks for your kind note and equally kind review. I had a small order from Greenwood, filled it immediately, and offered a larger supply on consignment. I've had no response.

You are correct in saying the book "is so detailed I found it difficult..."etc. The reasons are not simple. First, I wanted to be as thorough as possible. I ask, as you may recall, for a public airing, and I intended the book to have what would be required for this. And because I knew of the reluctance of the press to consider the subject, I wanted to leave as thorough a record as I could in the space available. Remember, I began without a contract, and that is the size of the book. There is no limit to how large a book or books the subject justifies.

Again, thanks for your willingness and your help. I need all I can get, for the next instalment on the printing bill is due the tenth and I do not now have the money!

Sincerely,

Harold Weisberg

P.S. Among the European papers, I know it got nice comments in the London Times and Le Monde, the two most respected papers in these countries.
